

Becky Kossa earned her Bachelor's of Science degree at Lamar University and worked in industry before starting her family. Her oldest son graduated high school in 2018 and her daughter graduated in 2020 after attending classes with HRM, and her youngest still attends the Home Run Ministries Secondary Academy. Following God's leading, she has taught all levels of middle school and high school math and science at a private Christian school. She has a love for teaching math and helping students understand what a beautifully ordered world God has created for us.
