

Su Bahler received her degree in education at the University of St. Thomas. She has homeschooled her three boys in all levels, and has worked at Super Friday for many years. She particularly enjoys working with teens, and supporting parents whose children have special needs.