

Jason Hamel is a dedicated husband, father, educator, advisor, author, and believer with over 25 years of leadership, training, and educational experience. Born and raised in California, Jason and his wife, Darriane, felt led by the Holy Spirit to relocate to Houston in 2022. Their goals were to seek out and protect the closely held values near and dear to him and his wife. Finding a Bible-teaching church in which to serve, building a community with other Christ-minded homeschooling families, and continuing to pursue a well-rounded Christ-centered education for their children being among the few of those values. After attaining a degree in business and finance, Jason felt called to teach with the mission of helping children learn with sound biblical principles. Jason followed this calling by creating a child-friendly financial curriculum, working with families to teach their children Biblical finance as early as the age of 4 and up. He is excited about the opportunity to serve at HRM!
